Dear Parents

It has been great to see more settled weather this last couple of weeks. We have been able to take the children up to the field at lunchtimes which they have really enjoyed. Hopefully it will stay settled for the next few weeks as we have quite a few activities planned.

The children will be visiting their new classes on Tuesday of next week, just for the morning, which will give the children time to get to know their new teaching team and classmates. (The new teacher for Ospreys class is also coming in on that day to meet the class)

There are just three weeks left until the end of term and I would like to take this opportunity, before everything gets too crazy, to thank every parent and carer for their continued support and understanding over the last year. The continual changes of routines and expectations have been relentless and I completely understand how frustrating it must have been for all of you. We really do appreciate all that you do for the school. Your flexibility and support makes everything a little easier for us. So thank you!
